

FEI Classification Rules

To remain in compliance with the IPC Athlete Classification Code and accompanying International Standards, the FEI and FEI Head of Classification have prepared the FEI Classification Rules to replace the FEI Classification Manual.

For compliance reasons, the FEI Classification Rules is based largely on the IPC Classification Model Rules for Para Sports, which were released this year for use by member International Federations.

Appendices I and II are still undergoing changes, which are to be completed by qualified Classifiers following ongoing research into assessment methodology and criteria.

The FEI Classification Rules contains all of the information from the previous FEI Classification Manual. It is complemented by the FEI Manual for Classifiers.
